

Queen City Daily

blog of Allentown Morning Call

August 14, 2008

Morganelli picks up key endorsement

Posted by Chris Reber

As you may know, this is Northampton County DA John Morganelli, pictured with his newest supporter.

A pro-life, pro-gun "D", Morganelli's traveling the state to drum up support for his bid to unseat State Attorney General Tom Corbett, who's up for re-election this fall.

Yesterday, as reported by the Philadelphia Inquirer, Morganelli and Rocky were in Montgomery County to condemn the decision to move the Barnes Foundation to the Benjamin Franklin Parkway, which could take a Balboa-like effort. Earlier this year a MontCo judge blocked the foundation's request to keep the collection in Lower Merion, despite Albert Barnes' last wishes.

Morganelli's facing his own Apollo Creed in Corbett. The incumbent has nearly doubled his fundraising, and recent headline-grabbing indictments haven't helped. Not to mention, MCall Capitol Ideas man John Micek calls the row office a "virtual Republican fiefdom."

According to campaign filings, as of May 22, Morganelli had $618,817.02 on hand, while Corbett has amassed $1,122,568.02. He also owns attorneygeneral.gov, which pretty much seals the deal.

Barnes Foundation Fight Enters Pa. Politics [Inquirer]